LONDON, July 19.—The only interest in the third day's' play in the Dwight F. Davis international tennis cup competition was with regard to the possibility of the Americans gaining the maximum points against the Australians, which they did, both William A. Larned and Beals C. Wright, winning their matches, Larned beat Norman E. Brookes, the Australian champion, three sets to Love and Wright accounted for A. F. Wilding by two sets to Love. The Americans have not selected the team for the challenge round, which will be played at Wimbledon, July 21st, July 22d, and July 23d, but it is probable that Ward and Wright will play in the doubles and Clothler and Larned in the singles.

WASHINGTON, July 18. Assistant Secretary of Agriculture Willet N. Hays has taken hold of the affairs of the Bureau of Statistics with instructions from Socretary Wilson, approved by President Hoosevelt to cleanse the bureau of the atigma. left by the cotion leak scandal. His authority is unlimited. He has been told that he may have whatever clerical force he needs and if there are any employes whose service he thinks should be dispensed with they will be discharged. It is regarded as extremely likely that there will be a complete reorganization of the force employed in the statistical department as well as a thorough revision of the orders for the government monthly crop reports, the latter laving already been outlined in a circular issued by Secretary Wilson, in that regard Secretary Wilson, and the first having already been outlined in a circular issued by Secretary Wilson, and the first having already been outlined in a circular issued by Secretary Wilson, in that regard Secretary Wilson said to-day that hereafter if there are accusations against the integrity of the bureau they must be directed against himself or Assistant Secretary Hays, as he has no intention of allowing any other person access to information that might be used in stock Jobblins.

Mr. Hays probably will be in charge of the bureau until after Congress assembles, as it is believed that a competenting to take the place of Mr. Hyde, who resigned yesterday as chief statistician, cannot be had for the sulary paid by the government, $5,00 a, year. Congress will be asked to Increase the salary, and it is the intention of Secretary Wilson to place in charge of the office a man whose ability has been established and who has no connection with the statistical bureaus attached to stock brokerage offices. Whoever is appointed will first the approved by the President.

Spirited Struggles in Kentucky Tennesses and Arkansas.

The terms of eleven Democratic United States senators from the South will expire on March 3, 1907.

They are those of A. O. Bacon Georgia; Joseph W. Balley, of Texas; James H. Berry, of Arkansas; Joseph C. S. Blackburn, of Kentucky; Edward W. Carmack, of Tennessee; Murphy J. Foster, of Louisiana; Anselm J. Mc-Lauren, of Mississippi; Thomas S. Martin, of Virginia; John T. Morgan, of Alabama; F. M. Simmons, of North Carolina, and Benjamin R. Tillman, of South Carolina.

Most of these senators will be returned without serious opposition, but in at least four instances, the incumbents are struggling for mastery with men who are regarded as quite formidable astagonists. Those are Berry, of Arkansas; Blackburn, of Kentucky; Carmack, of Tennessee, and Mortin, of Virgins, All four are con-Martin, of Virginia, All four are considered powerful factors in the politics of their respective States, and have here-tofore won their battles with comparative case, but the seriousness with which they recognized strength of those competing with them, at least indicate that all the contests will be exciting, if not bitter, from now until the end, Governor Jeff, Davis is opposing Sena-

Virginia's Fight.

All Viginians know the conditions in this State, where Governor Montague and this State, where Governor alontague and Senator Martin, long time political foes, are in a struggle which may mean the political existence of one or the other.

In Virginia, Tennessee and Arkansas, there will be primary elections, and the candidates are already appealing to the

Warm in Tennessee

The Memphis correspondent of the Louisville Courier-Journal, writes thus of

"The warmth of the municipal race has distracted the attention of Memphians from the struggle between glants, nevitable from the moment former Governor Robert L. Taylor announced for the seat of Senator E. W. Carmack. Both orillant speakers are straining at the leash, each eager to present his cause on the hustings, and confident of swaying public opinion to his side. Should the joint debeates be arranged, the railroads will be losers, as hundreds of Tonnes-sceans and others will throw business cares aside and follow the speakers from place to place. Their audiences, it can be freely predicted, will eclipse anything seen in Tennessee since the days of Jimmy

As to Arkansas.

The same writer gives the following via description of conditions in Arkansas: "Another political battle which has gone so far almost without notice in this murky political atmosphere is across the border in Arkansas, where Governor Davis is attempting to wrest senatorial bavis is attempting to wrest, Hopes of a joint debate there have faded, Senator Berry declining to meet Davis, accusing him of being insolent and impolite, of taking liberties with his name, and of veering from the facts, Heated epistolary and the control of th debate was closed by the senator in a caustic ultimatum, and each candidate will make the canvass in his own way. But it seems sure that there will be enough heat in it to suit the taste of even the most blase politician."

All Have Factions.

It has become almost proverbial of the southern Democracy, that sharp factions divide the party in nearly all the States, and in each of the four now under consideration, one side or the other is alleging "machine methods" against the wing having control of the party organization. ization.

Senator Blackburn, one of the most

Senator Blackburn, one of the most striking figures in national political life, who has generally stood pretty close to those in authority, is making his appeal straight to the people, and is saying that the Democratic machine is being employed to defeat him.

Down in Tennessee, Carmack and former Governor Jas. Senator's Don't Speak.

Senator's Don't Speak.

The clipping from the Courier-Journal shows what Senator Berry thinks of Dayis. His hatred for his colleague, Senator Clarke, who is helping Dayis, is hardly less bitter, the two not having spoken for years.

When Clarke succeeded Jones, Berry would not present his oredentials to the Senate, and their relations are even more strained now than ever.

Sonator Berry is sixty-five years of age; lost a leg in the Confederate service at the hattle of Corinth, Mississippi, in 1862; has been Speaker of the House of Representatives of Arkansas, Circuit Judge, Governor and United Stated Senator for twenty years.

Davis is the younger element of the party. He has been three times Governor, though yet under forty years old. He is a born fighter, and one of the most gifted stump speakers in the South Edward W. LITTLE DUTIES.

A letter carrier in one of our large cities a few months ago found, on reaching the post-office after a long round of delivery, a letter in his bag that he had overshooked it would have taken him half an shour to return and deliver it. He was very tired and hungry. The letter was an ordinary, unimportant looking missive. He put it in his pocket and delivered it on his first round the next day. What consequence followed? For want of that letter a great firm had failed to meet their engagements; their notes had gone to protest; a mill closed, and hundreds of poor workmen were thrown out of comployment. The letter carrier himself was discharged for his oversight and neglect. His family suffered during the winter for many of the necessaries of nilte, but his loss was of small account compared to the enormous amount of misery caused by his single failure in duty.

The oaken case in which it was taken from France to Sweden is still in use; in fact, the harp was brought here in it last year.

Apart from the historical significance connected with the harp, it is interesting to note the great dieffrence between it compared to the enormous amount of whisery caused by his single failure in duty.

Another case: A mechanic who had been out of work a long time in New York went to collect a small sum due him. The gentleman who owed it, being annoyed at some trifle, irritably refused the money. The man went to his wretched home, and, maddened by the sight of his hungry wife and children, went out to the back yard and hanged himself. The next day an old employer sant to ofter him a permanent situation. Here was a life lost and a family left paupers because a bill of a dollar or two was not paid at the right time.

The old Spanish proverb says "There is no such thing as a trifle in the world." When we think how inextricably the lives of all mankind are tangled together, it seems as if every word or action moved a lever which set in motion a gigantic machine whose effect is beyond our control. For this reason, if for no other, let us be careful to perform promptly and well the duties of life—even the most trivial.—Exchange. Rental.

Pursuant to a decree of the Chancery Court of the city of Richmond, entered July 17, 1995, in the cause of Alien vs. Jacobs and Jacobs vs. Wolfshelmor, the following special commissioners will sell at public auction, on the premises, on FRIDAY, JULY MET, 1995. WALTER SYDNOR, ARTHUR M. CANNON, Mary Antoinette's Harp.

The Sterling Plane Company, 536 Fulton Street, has on exhibition in one of its windows a harp that was once the property of the ill-fated Marie Antoinette, Queen of France. This interesting relic now belongs to Miss Dagmar Langenberg, a young Swedish woman, who brought it with her to this country about a year ago, and who has in her possession all the documents necessary to prove its authenticity. The harp was made by
